

The {Nerdtastic} Book Challenge

MICHELLE'S LIBRARY

Total book count: 237 (118 w/o childrens books) Fiction: 85 Non-Fiction: 33

I decided to only count the grown-up books here

Top author: Jane Austen # of books to donate: 14

The book I'm reading next: 7 Habits of Highly Effective People

CATEGORY	#	CATEGORY	#
Literature & Classics	21	Essays	3
Novels	5	Humor	8
Young adult	7	Craft/DIY	7
History	7	Money	3
Decor/Interior design	7	Spiritual/Self-development	17
How-to	8	Cookbooks	20
Memoir/Biography	5	Childrens books	119

QUESTIONS TO PONDER

What do the categories say about your personality & reading habits? How does that make you feel? These answers are on the next page!

What surprised you? What did not surprise you at all?

What categories of books might you move to a different spot, so as to have easier access when you need/want them?

QUESTIONS TO PONDER

What do the categories say about your personality & reading habits? How does that make you feel?

I clearly fell in love with reading as a kid. (I didn't realize quite how many favorites I kept! Mrs. Piggie-Wiggle, anyone?)

Cookbooks and classic literature is no surprise.

I decided to combine the "spiritual" books with the "self-development" books, because to me, they're the same category—how to have a better life. Which I'm clearly interested in.

What surprised you?

I have two copies of Anne Frank's diary, even though I've never read the whole thing. I would have expected to have more novels than I do...but then again, I get lots of those from the library.

What did not surprise you at all?

I have three copies of Pride & Prejudice. Which is not surprising, because I used to have five. (I'm pretty sure I lent out the others...that's why I have duplicates. I cannot be without a copy of P&P.)

What categories of books might you move to a different spot, so as to have easier access when you need/want them?

I'm going to move my gardening books downstairs by the back door, because I am usually referencing them when I'm planting seeds in the backyard.

I also moved my stack of "books to read next" to the shelf by my bathtub, because that's where I read most often.

I also moved a bunch of all-time favorites to my bedroom, because I like to read them before bed.